Giant cows and glowing pigs on TV farm

A FARM with real-life giant cows and pigs that glow in the dark will be unveiled in a shocking new TV show.

Channel 4 is planning to highlight just how far down the road scientists have gone with genetically modified animals. In the controversial programme producers will reveal a variety of beasts reared through GM, cloning and tissue engineering. They include sheep which have human hearts, goats producing spiders' silk, glow-in-the-dark pigs and cows three times their normal size.

There is even an allotment where doctors are "growing" human noses.

Telly scientist Olivia Judson will host the show.

C4's director of television Kevin Lygo said: "This is an exciting science series about genetic modification. Everything on our farm is real.

"You may think these creatures are the future.

"But they are the reality, living right now."

Virgin

Channel 4 Farm is one of the highlights of the station's winter season unveiled yesterday.

A series of shows about sex are also planned, with documentaries on masturbation and sex cults. The Virgin Season will feature a group of men and women who want to lose their cherry.

Some will be sent to "Virgin School" in Amsterdam, where top class escorts will teach them how to enjoy love-making.

And they will all get a chance to have sex for the first time on camera.

Channel 4 will also be staging W*nk Week.

A C4 spokesman said last night: "The shows will be going out after the watershed."

Top Cat for Idol

SEXY Cat Deeley is set to land the plum role as host of the TV talent show American Idol.

ITV want her to front a new-look version of the series.

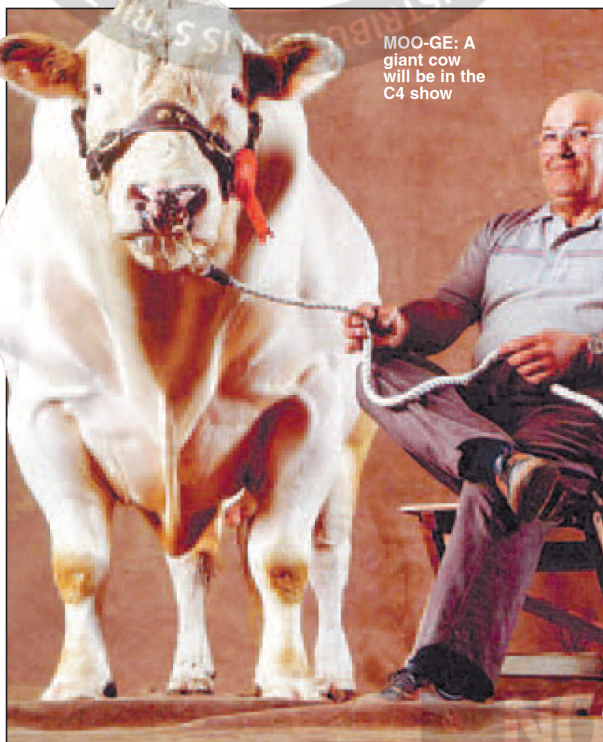

The channel has previously aired the US show exactly as it is shown in America.

But now they plan to re-edit each episode, with Cat, 30, doing links at the start and end for the UK audience.

ITV has won the bidding war with rivals Channel 4, Five and Sky to screen the show for another two years.

Finalists going off their rock-

X FACTOR finalists turned on show favourite Ben Mills during a foul-mouthed late-night bust-up.

Angry neighbours were woken in the early hours yesterday as the feuding wannabes traded insults.

The row spilled out on to the front garden as the singers, including Nikitta Angus, 18, targeted rocker Ben, 26.

And when he stormed off neighbours say they heard the contestants screaming "come back you fing rock star".

One neighbour revealed: "They were all out the front screaming at each other. Nikitta was very aggressive and kept screaming 'f off' and 'who the hell do you think you are?'"

Guests

"She was with Ashley and Robert and seemed to be having a pop at Ben. They all seemed really drunk.

"Eventually Ben walked off as the others screamed at him to come back, calling him a fing rock star."

Earlier in the evening,

■ by KATIE BEGLEY

the finalists had all been guests at the Children's Champions Awards 2006 in London.

Ben is the runaway favourite to bag the £1million recording contract after wowing the judges.

An X Factor spokesman said: "They were quite high spirited when they were dropped at home but there weren't any arguments."

SNOOP ordered a black and white nightclub to be repainted blue before he lured it up there. The rapper then partied at Club Ergo with pals Timbaland, 35, and MTV presenter Tim Kash, 25. However on the way back to his hotel Snoop's car crashed into another vehicle. The generous star got out of the ride and left a note offering to cover repair costs. Good man.

THE Killers held a secret warm-up show in the city ahead of their Justin Timberlake and Cameron Diaz, 34 – THE glam couple of the event – sneaked out on Wednesday night to watch. Meanwhile Brandon Flowers, 25, and wife Tana Munbowski were seen hanging around the Hotel d'Angleterre, where the big names had suites.

KELIS was reporting from the secondary site at Copenhagen's Radhus Pladsen. To combat the sub-zero temperatures at the outside venue, the 26-year-old Bossy singer had two litres of herbal honey and lemon kept in a large vat by the side of the stage. Sweet.

COMIC IGNORES BAN TO RILE MADGE

AVID Merriam had MTV organisers tearing their hair out as he took the mickey out of Madonna.

They tried to ban the Bo Selecta man from poking fun at Madge's adoption of a child from Malawi at the MTVEurope Music Awards in Copenhagen last night.

Avid, real name Leigh Francis, 33, performed Bung Up – a mickey-take of the pop queen's hit single Hung Up – halfway through the glittering awards show held at the Bella Center.

Bursting out of a large silver disco ball he performed Bung Up, a parody of the pop queen's hit Hung Up. Farting all the way through he was surrounded by dwarfs dressed as small children.

Addressing the crowds he said: "I'm getting too old for this shit, I am Madonna. I've been getting a lot of hooshi from the press because I bought a baby. If I want to buy a baby, I will."

Pointing to the little ones he added: "I bought these from e-bay, they are my e-babies. As he left the stage he pointed to the black midget and said: "You're my favourite." Presumably he was referring to Madonna's adopted child David.

Sacha Baron Cohen, 35, as Borat added to the controversy as he opened up the awards night with an unscripted live satellite link welcoming host Justin Timberlake, 25, to the show.

He told him: "Jensons take advantage of your position with as many beautiful girls as you can."

"Don't be too friendly to female pop stars. Last year I did it with the ugly one from the Pussycat Dolls and (holding up a to) had this baby with her. Is Madonna there? She's not? That's a shame I wanted her to buy it. My only concern is that the singing transvestite won't be a good father."

JT kicked off proceedings with a medley of his songs helped by 22 dancers and amazing pyrotechnics then later joined rapper Snoop, 35, for a foul-mouthed rap duet surrounded by massive ice sculptures.

The event was a bit light on totty with only Nelly Furtado, 27, Cassie, 20, and Rihanna, 18, by way of eye candy. Luckily there were strong sets from the ever powerful Diddy, 36, The Killers and Keane, who offered up Is It Any Wonder?

There was also an amazing laser spectacle laid on by Muse before Lordi, the Eurovision nutters, closed the show.

KEANE man Tom Chaplin, 27, kept a low profile the night before the show. The singer, who I told you yesterday is winning his drink and drugs battle, opted to stay in his hotel room and watch DVDs rather than party.

TICKETS for Justin's UK tour next year were expected to sell-out in record time today. Log on to www.aeglive.co.uk to grab them before they go.

News in brief

IT'S TIMELESS DR WHO

DOCTOR Who David Tennant won't say when he's calling time on being a Time Lord. Tennant, 35, who bagged the Best Actor gong at the National Television Awards this week and also picked up the Sci-Fi show's Best Drama prize, has voiced concerns about being typecast. Asked if the awards meant he would stay on longer, he said: "That's a good question. I'm not going to answer it."

Counting the Costa

HUNDREDS of Brits face the threat of bulldozers wrecking their Spanish homes after a court ordered 500 illegally built properties to be destroyed.

Blocks of apartments built on protected land on the northern coast near Santander without permission will be reduced to rubble next year.

Government spokesman Antonio Verchez warned: "Dwellings illegally built in Spain face being razed."

Police have reported that in the past two years more than 12,823 homes have been illegally built in areas popular with Brits like Alicante and Murcia.

SHEREE'S MAN TROUBLE

MOBS: Sheree

SHEREE Murphy has fired a warning to gay blokes telling them: "Keep your hands off my husband."

The ex-Emmerdale star, 31, says Liverpool ace Harry Kewell, 28, has an army of male admirers who mob him when he steps out the door.

She said: "I'm getting really tired of gay men hitting on Harry. I'm sending out a warning - keep your manicured mitts off!"

A floody nuisance

STRONG winds and high tides caused flooding chaos on roads on the Norfolk-Suffolk border.

Rivers burst their banks, blocking the A143 at St Olaves on the River Waveney between Great Yarmouth and Beccles, and the A12 was closed at Reydon on the River Blyth.

Ballast was also washed away from the Norwich-Lowestoft rail line at Haddiscoe Bridge in Suffolk.

Gales prevented North Sea levels from dropping after recent high tides, leaving the Rivers Yare, Bure, Ant, Thurne and Waveney at risk of flooding.

JOLIE AND DAD MAKE UP

ANGELINA Jolie has ended her four-year feud with Jon Voight, her estranged father.

The 67-year-old actor has been telling friends in LA that Jolie, 31, partner Brad Pitt, 42, and their three children will all be at a lavish reunion.

A pal said: "He gave me the impression they're one big happy family again."

Trouble brewed when Voight went on TV and accused his daughter of being mentally ill.

PRAM DASH: Accompanied by a minder, David's nanny rushes the baby back to Madonna's New York apartment

Pictures: RONALD ASADORIAN
HUMBERTO CARRENO / REX

MADONNA: HE CALLS ME MOMMA

POP queen Madonna has revealed how her new son already calls her "Momma" – but has yet to call Guy Ritchie "Daddy".

The 48-year-old also told how daughter Lourdes was "bummed out" when she failed to bring adopted baby David Banda to the UK in time for her tenth birthday. Lourdes apparently saw the new arrival from Malawi as her "birthday gift".

Speaking on US telly, Madonna also told how David was made welcome at her London home.

by JEFF GREEN

She revealed: "He arrived at 7am and the children were getting ready for school, all in the kitchen. "He came with my nanny. "When the door opened it was just really quiet. "The children just ran to him and the nanny held him and it was just a strange, quiet moment."

Madonna says she left Malawi without David because she didn't want to miss Lourdes' birthday. But she said her daughter was disappointed not to see her new baby brother.

"She was so bummed out when I arrived empty-handed because she thought that was going to be her birthday present," Madonna said.

"Every day they [the children] were saying: 'Is David coming? When's he going to get here?' They were very excited."

The baby has been talking, too, but hasn't yet referred to film director Guy, 38, as "Daddy".

Madonna said: "He doesn't say that word. He doesn't have that many words. He says: 'Bye Bye' and 'Momma'."

Curious

The superstar admitted that she was first drawn to little David by his eyes.

She said: "He just had a soulfulness and a knowing look in his eyes. I was completely drawn to him and curious about him."

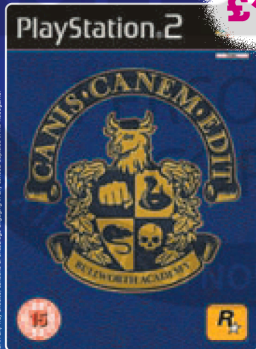

Madonna also reveals how she asked a worker at the orphanage to sing her David's favourite song: "One of the ladies was always singing it to him, so I said: 'Teach it to me'."

Yesterday 68% of Daily Star readers said that Madonna's adoption critics were not racist.

SWEDE 'N SOUR

Viking babes best but Brits more fun

SWEDEN has the hottest women in the world.

The stunning Scandies topped a poll of backpackers.

Babes like Victoria Silvstedt, 32, and Helen Svedin, 31, wife of Portuguese footballer Luis Figo, pushed English girls into second.

But we won the vote for funniest country thanks to comics like Peter Kay, 33. Germany, famous for Formula One ace Michael Schumacher, 37, was branded least funny country.

Ugly

America, led by President George Bush, 60, was named most stupid nation with US women, many of whom have plastic surgery like Jocelyn Wildenstein, 60, voted most ugly.

The poll was done by www.wayn.com, a travel website with more than six million members in 220 countries.

A spokesman said: "These results are amusing. Who would have thought the Americans would come off so badly?

by LAURA NEIL

"The UK didn't fair too badly in the poll with a third of people voting the Brits as the funniest in the world."

MOPTOPS: Sarah Harding and a tamarin

WANNA BE LIKE YOU-OO-OO

It's natural to ape stars' hair-dos

VAIN poseurs who spend hours monkeying around with their hair are simply following animal instincts.

Experts reckon our love of grooming and search for the perfect haircut is only natural.

They say our obsession with hair is a classic primate characteristic – and there is plenty of evidence from the animal kingdom to back up their argument.

Rachel

Hollywood beauty Jennifer Aniston, 37, had her famous "Rachel" hairstyle copied by millions all over the world when she starred in Friends.

But perhaps she was subconsciously aping the golden lion tamarin, who shares the same sleek look that demands hours of maintenance.

Then there is the choppy-white style sported by Girls Aloud babe Sarah Harding, 24 and nightclub owner Peter

■ by IAIN BURCHELL

Stringfellow, 66. They both look just like the Amazonian cotton-top tamarin.

And the late Buster Merryfield, who played Uncle Albert in Only Fools and Horses, bore a resemblance to the langur monkey with his all-round beard.

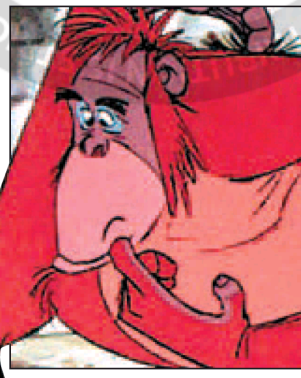

According to scientists, human hair has evolved as the perfect indication of social standing. Research in New Scientist magazine says well-groomed hair shows a person is "popular".

Scientists claim people with lank, unkempt locks are more likely to be treated like outcasts.

Dr Alison Jolly, a primatologist at Sussex University, said: "It makes so much sense. Neat hair shows someone likes you enough to do the bits around the back."

"Many primates have complex natural hairstyles that show the individual's health and social status, as well what species they are."

SHEEP SEX MAN: DON'T SEND ME BAAACK

AN asylum seeker who had sex with two sheep has begged not to be sent home - because he'll be castrated.

Hidayat Amin, 30, romped with a ewe and a ram in a barn after sneaking onto a farm.

The Iraqi Kurd was caught after leaving his underpants at the scene. He was jailed for six months after being found guilty of interfering with an animal under Section 69 of the Sexual Offences Act 2003.

■ by JERRY LAWTON

Factory worker Amin, who had denied the charge, faces deportation after serving his sentence.

But he plans to fight it, claiming he'll be castrated if he is returned to his homeland where sick sex crimes are not tolerated. And he may win the right to stay in Britain as the Home Office will not deport him unless officials are assured he'll escape the snip.

Prowler

Hull Crown Court heard he visited Acey Farm in Preston, East Yorks, to prey on the animals.

Farmer Frank Davidson called police after spotting a prowler and finding the underwear. DNA later confirmed Amin was the culprit.

Amin, who arrived in Britain three years ago, said he was living happily with his girlfriend in Hull.

After the case Mr Davidson said he was worried Amin may also have targeted his Shetland pony.

He said: "He wants locking up. Then sending back."

HULK IS DEAD AFTER EATING SEX COOKIES

'They turned him into raging beast'

by JERRY LAWTON
RUGBY player Malcolm Flockton died in a police cell after his lover's cannabis sex cookie turned him into a growling animal.

The 16st hulk performed a striptease for his delighted fiancée of five days, Sandra Stringer – who'd fed him the biscuit to boost their sex life.

But as the effects of the drug took hold he wrapped himself up in a sheepskin rug, bleating like lamb.

Then he began growling like a beast, snarling at shocked Sandra.

Welder Malcolm, 41, who played for amateur rugby club Rockcliffe, dashed outside – naked apart from a navy blue fleece.

He then walked half-a-mile through the streets to the home of Sandra's ex-husband and hurled a brick through his window.

When police arrived he struggled so violently they cuffed his hands behind his back, an inquest heard.

He was still lashing out as they carried him into a cell at Wallsend police station, North Tyneside, where Malcolm suddenly turned blue and collapsed.

Cakes

Coroner Eric Armstrong said: "The police tried to resuscitate him and the paramedics were called in. "He was taken to hospital but pronounced dead."

High school catering assistant Sandra, 47, told the inquest in North Shields that a work colleague showed her how to bake "space cakes".

Margarine, sugar, flour and grated cannabis were used to make a cookie to pep up their sex life.

She and Malcolm baked them in their flat in Killingworth, near North Shields.

Sandra said: "It had a tremendous effect on our sex life. Every time we'd make a biscuit.

"We did it six times."

On the night of the tragedy, Sandra said: "He put the sheepskin rug on, pretending to be a sheep.

"He left the room and I saw him standing at the top of the steps – naked.

"He said, 'I've got you sussed' – but I did not know what he meant."

The inquest was told Malcolm suffered chronic heartburn, high blood pressure, and was clinically obese.

The Police Complaints Authority have investigated his death.

The inquest continues.

Veil girl kicked off bus

A MUSLIM woman was stopped from getting on a bus because she would not remove her veil.

The 22-year-old says passengers laughed when the driver refused to let her on because he couldn't check her ID with her bus pass photo.

The incident happened as the Manchester University student tried to get on a bus in Oldham, Lancs.

Lift

She said: "I told him I would not remove my veil and he said I couldn't get on."

A First Manchester bus spokesman said: "We have investigated this incident thoroughly, but found no complaint on our system."

Bosses are to meet with their trade association for advice on what to do if other passengers with passes refuse to lift veils.

Anger over Street's sleazy sex scandal

■ EXCLUSIVE by JOHN MAHONEY
CORONATION Street's cosy family image is set to be torn apart by a sleazy dogging sex scandal.

The squalid storyline, to be aired around Christmas, will be the first time the subject of swingers has been tackled in the soap's 46-year history.

Viewers will see man-mad Tracy Barlow tell bullying boyfriend Charlie Stubbs the only way they will stay together is if she can have sex with factory boss Liam Connor - while he watches.

It's the second time this week Corrie has come under fire after Charlie was shown repeatedly ducking the head of David Platt (Jack Shepherd, 18) in water - a scene which was compared to the Soham child murders.

Last night Mike Penning, Tory MP for Hemel Hempstead, said Corrie bosses had reached "the base of depravity".

He blasted: "So many millions have enjoyed tuning in over the years knowing the content of the show is wholesome and family friendly."

"To tackle something as tatty as this just shows how far standards have slipped."

And John Beyer, director of Mediawatch UK, branded the storyline "absolutely unsuitable".

He said: "Children do watch the soaps and therefore this content is totally unacceptable. Sleazy sex like this is not to be projected in the family place."

CORONATION ST.

Bosses are still reeling from leaving this week's National TV Awards empty-handed, after EastEnders scooped the Most Popular Serial Drama gong.

Fans will see Tracy (Kate Ford, 29) suggest her sex thrills as part of her build-up to murdering Charlie (Bill Ward, 39).

She intends to create a "self defence" to prove she's been sexually, mentally and physically abused by him.

Flings

Tracy decides she wants to bump him off after discovering his affair with sexy Maria Sutherland (Samia Smith, 24) and his romps with a blonde stranger.

Fans will see her tell Charlie: "There's only one way we can move on and I can properly forgive your pathetic flings."

"So this is the deal. I have sex with someone else of my own choosing as well and you have to be there when I do it."

Tracy plumps for hunky Liam (Rob James-Collier, 29) and Charlie - turned on by the thought of Tracy sleeping with another bloke - gives her his blessing.

SEXY Lisa Hunter launches a blistering attack on prostitute Polly after her romp with Ben. Feisty Lisa (Gemma Atkinson, 22) hits the roof in E4's Hollyoaks: In the City (Monday, 9pm) when she finds Ben got it on with the gorgeous blonde. Ben (Marcus Patric, 27) split with Lisa after she admitted being a high-class hooker, but within hours he was at it with Polly (Georgina Walker, 22) in a steamy session which was caught on camera. Lisa's forced to watch it during a function and she loses it. An insider said: "Lisa's livid and is pulling Polly's hair out before she knows what's hit her."

Babs calls for Grant to end Square exile

EastEnders

BARBARA Windsor has revealed she's pulling out all the stops to convince Ross Kemp to return to Albert Square.

The pint-sized star, who plays landlady Peggy Mitchell, says she's desperate for the Mitchell clan to be reunited.

Ross, 42, right, who plays Grant, made a brief return earlier this year in an explosive Mitchell showdown with gangster Johnny Allen (Billy Murray, 64).

Together

Barbara, 69, said: "I'd love to see all the Mitchells brought back together."

"When I see that Mr Kemp I'm going to badger him to come back."

"He came for a couple of months and then disappeared again. I'd love to see him back sometime, it's been too long."

Do nuns and priests have to be virgins?

FATHER Paul Embury, director of the National Office for Vocation, says: "No, priests don't have to be virgins. "If somebody has been sexually active in the past we'd want to see there had been a period of abstinence and we would want to know that they were orientating themselves towards a life of celibacy." It's the same situation for nuns.

Do animals have sex for fun?

THE book informs us that, apart from man, "the only two mammals that fit those criteria are dolphins and bonobos (apes)". Recreational sex is a luxury in which few species can indulge. Think about it. Other animals are far too busy gathering food to have purely recreational sex and, if they had the time, why would they waste their energy on something so non-productive? Bonobos and dolphins are more evolved and therefore more like us.

Is sex good exercise?

A REALLY intense sexual encounter is more beneficial than a gym session. According to a study, a 15-minute session with five minutes of foreplay burns 100 calories. And to that, calories used in undoing a bra and eight calories in one hand uses up

The truth about SEX

IT'S the answer to everything you ever wanted to know about sex - a new book that attempts to answer the ultimate questions about nookie. Where Do Nudists Keep Their Hankies?

collects facts, trivia and expert insights to reveal how often men think about sex and how many calories you lose undoing a bra. JAMES MOORE has compiled some of the best results from the book, which is sure to be a real Christmas stocking thriller. Where Do Nudists Keep Their Hankies? by Mitchell Symons is published by Bantam Press on November 9 (£9.99).

Why do gentlemen prefer blondes?

DOCTOR Lorraine Mackintosh says: "I don't think it's the shortage of natural blondes that causes men to find them attractive but the fact that they look so striking. "If you look at other species you'll see that when creatures of either sex have a choice of mate they tend to pick one that looks exciting and different. "Look at the peacock. Why should humans be different?" So it's no wonder babes like 21-year-old Scarlett Johansson, pictured, Jennifer Ellison, 23, and Sarah Harding, 24, are beating them off with a stick!

Why is it called the missionary position?

DOCTOR Karen Landy: "It seems that missionaries didn't in fact express any opinion on how sex should be performed. "However that didn't stop mischievous Pacific islanders from including them in their range of impersonations of how different people had sex. They decided to characterise the missionaries as being so straight-laced that they would only do it on what the islanders considered to be the least embarrassing fashion possible."

Why is a red light used to represent prostitution?

THERE are two theories either of which could be true. The first goes back to the Old Testament of the Bible. When Joshua was trying to capture Jericho he was helped by Rahab, a Jericho prostitute, who identified her house with a scarlet thread. The second is that it comes from the red lanterns carried by railway workers, which they left outside the brothels when they went inside.

Should footballers have sex before a match?

DOCTOR Rola says: "Some abstain because they think it focuses the mind on the day's contest others believe release of stress through sex helps. "Some experts believe the presence of testosterone in the blood is an advantage for sportsmen in sports like weightlifting or sprinting but this is better as a matter of debate. Well, let's hope David Beckham's decision about to have sex with a girl on the bench before the night before the match in Madrid.
